

Digga Excavations Reduces Double-Entry and Paper Documents by Moving to Viewpoint

For over 10 years, Digga Excavations has been a leader in civil construction and excavation services across Tasmania and Australia. Digga Excavations has the industry knowledge, expertise and resources to manage projects on every level, from planning, commencement, delivery and completion.

Digga Excavations began looking for a new technology solution as its current software, QuickBooks and a home-grown database, were unable to keep up with the demands of a growing business. Digga was also looking for a solution that encouraged better team collaboration by sharing data that is helpful to the entire project team.

We can help

According to Business Manager, Jenni Healey, "The integrated Accounting and Service Management modules have eliminated the need for staff to re-enter and/or cross-check data in multiple systems. With the time saved, we've been able to strategically reallocate office resources." The integration has also resulted in less paperwork and a streamlining of processes for many aspects of the business.

The features in the Service Management module have been exceptionally useful. Healey offered, "The fact that the Service Management module links Work Orders to Accounting has been incredibly helpful. The inventory, invoicing, materials, and equipment usage features are just brilliant."

We'd love to share more.
